gives a final winter aspect to a season that has been unusually mild and has held buyers away from spending their money for winter goods that will move now with a rush. It is felt.

Out in the streets the storm created had going for the horses, especially on the paved streets. A number of the animals got bad falls. Cars skidded dizzily and gave the drivers many extra difficulties in managing them. A runaway owned by the Putnam Light and Power company brought up against a pole after a slide, and was somewhat damaged.

WHAT TO TAX NEXT IS
 With cost of War Steadily Mounting, Levies Must Be Extended.

London, Dec. 15.—What can we tax next? Is the question which financial advisers of the government are puzzling over as the time draws near for next year's budget. With the cost of the war steadily mounting, any proposal that bids fair to realize a few thousand pounds per year without injustice to individuals and without increased cost of collection is worth careful scrutiny. The new French tax on all who buy extravagant meals at cafes and restaurants is being favorably watched from the English side of the channel, and at the same time even the smallest existing items of public revenue are being examined to see if they can be made to yield more.

A writer in the Economist suggests a revision of the numerous license duties, other than liquor licenses. For example, a manufacturer of wood alcohol now pays an annual license of 10 pounds, 10 shillings, while a manufacturer of petrol or gasoline only pays one pound. The number of firms involved is less than eighty," says the writer, "but it is believed that they could safely stand a considerable increase in charges. A similar increase is possible in the case of dealers in these commodities. Almost as much more could be obtained by increasing the license fees for selling patent medicines from five shillings to a pound. These licenses were at present collected only in Great Britain, and could be extended without great injustice to Ireland as well.

"It must be said," writes another tax expert, "that so small annual duty as five shillings ought never to have been imposed for such a purpose. The cost of collecting such a sum once a year is altogether out of proportion to the revenue secured. Even the dog tax, at the present rate of 7s 6d (1.85) yields nearly 750,000 pounds yearly, could certainly be increased without appreciable hardship.

The present license fee charged for dealers in tobacco is 5s 6d per year. It is proposed to increase this to one pound, representing an increase in revenue of nearly 300,000 pounds.

Playing cards, which at present pay three pence a pack, may be expected to suffer an increase to perhaps six pence.

Other licenses which are likely to be increased are the duties on male servants, on carriages and motor cars, the gun licenses and the licenses in connection with the hunting or preservation of game. The tax on male servants may also be supplemented by a new tax on all households employing more than one female servant.

The tax on male servants at present is 15 shillings a year.

A year ago the exchequer proposed the doubling of the taxes on automobiles, but this resulted in an altogether excessive increase in the duties of the higher powered cars, and the proposals were eventually withdrawn. Any new proposals which are submitted are likely to involve a more careful revision of the scale, graduating the rates so as to prevent such anomalies as a duty of 42 pounds on a car of 60 horse power and 85 pounds on a car of 61 horse power. In particular the duties of the motor bicycles and small cars are likely to be radically raised, as it is claimed that these are the vehicles which are now uselessly consuming gasoline.

One of the more radical proposals for new taxation is that put forward a few days ago by Prof. A. C. Pigou of Kings college, Cambridge university. He urges that all persons who have been granted exemption from military service shall be subject to a special war tax, and that this tax shall be levied not merely on men of military age, but on all stay at home, whether old or young.

AMERICAN CONSULATE IN VLADIVOSTOK ROBBED
 An Employee of the Consulate is Suspected of Taking $20,000.

Tokio, Dec. 15.—Official advices from Vladivostok report that the American consulate in that city was robbed of 40,000 rubles. At the normal ante-war rate of exchange this would be about $20,000.

According to the police a Russian employee of the consulate named Alexander Lange is suspected of having absconded with the money, it being charged that he has eloped to Japan with a young Casack girl who lived at Vladivostok.

It is understood that the money in question was merely Red Cross money intended for the German prisoners of war in Eastern Russia.
